Life at West Mercia Police ... Chief Inspector Peter Kitosi-Isanga

We spoke to Chief Inspector Pete Kitosi-Isanga, who is our Diversity, Equality, and Inclusion lead, so you could hear from someone already in a Chief Inspector role with us on their views about the role and what sets West Mercia Police apart from other forces.

How long have you been in policing?

21 years with all my service here at West Mercia Police. I have served the communities of West Mercia in a number of different roles, including Patrol, Safer Neighbourhood Policing, CID, Custody, Control Room, Strategy, Planning and Insight and Diversity, Equality and Inclusion. I am also a Tactical Firearms Commander.

What is the best thing about working in West Mercia Police?

The people. I have worked with some great colleagues over the years, some of who have been very supportive regarding my development. I love the rural countryside too, and the variety of work across policing. I also chair the force's Black, Asian, and Minority Ethnic Staff Network and I am Programme Director for the Positive Action Learning Sets (PALS) Programme.

A development programme aimed at our constables, sergeants, and police staff equivalent, to develop their leadership skills, self-awareness, and self-confidence to seek leadership roles across the organisation. Taking care of our diverse workforce in both capacities brings me great fulfilment.

What advice would you give to anyone looking to join West Mercia Police?

Joining the fourth largest geographical police force is unique and rewarding. Our communities have distinct characteristics and challenges. You will handle a variety of situations, from agricultural issues and wildlife incidents to night-time economy, providing you with a diverse range of responsibilities beyond our beautiful counties set in the countryside. It is a known fact that a diverse workforce, demographically or cognitively, makes for a more productive workforce and therefore benefits all of our communities. So come and join us in making West Mercia Police an even greater place to work - like the Nike advert, Just Do It!

If you're interested in an informal discussion with Chief Inspector Kitosi-Isanga about the force and the role of our Chief Inspectors, Pete has kindly extended an invitation for you to reach out directly. You can contact him by emailing:

About West Mercia Police

West Mercia is the fourth largest geographic police area in England and Wales, covering 2,868 square miles. Our communities cover three counties: Herefordshire, Shropshire (which includes Telford & Wrekin) and Worcestershire with more than 1.3 million people living in the areas we serve.

Whilst many of our communities are rural there are significant urban areas and small areas of social deprivation that are among the 10 percent most deprived areas nationally.

The force has been actively recruiting additional officers to meet its new, increased establishment of 2,496 in 2023/2024, the highest level on record in the force. We also have 200 PCSOs, more than 1,700 members of police staff and dozens of volunteers (including the Special Constabulary).

Numbers of officers have significantly increased year-on-year through both national uplifts and local initiatives. This ambitious level of recruitment is already positively impacting our communities.

The force is divided into five policing areas, each headed by a superintendent, and further divided into local safer neighbourhood teams made up of officers and staff who work within the communities. Other departments include Criminal Investigations Department (CID), Professional Standards Department (PSD), Forensics and Operational Policing Unit (OPU), including roads, dogs and firearms.

All these areas of the business are supported by professional teams including HR, IT and Corporate Communications.

Policing West Mercia

Information relating to the policing of West Mercia Police can be found on our website:

West Mercia Police has a Local Policing Community Charter, which makes commitments of service to local communities. This can be found here:

Change

We know that policing is changing. What is understood as traditional policing has already changed dramatically and will continue to do so. We need to be able to respond to that change and as technology continues to speed up social evolution, it is vital that we work with greater agility in future. Added to this, we must operate within the constraints of public spending, and this will continue to be challenging.

Our focus is on becoming as efficient and effective as we can possibly be, right now and for the future.

We need to embrace a different style, culture, and approach to achieve a new and modern way of delivering policing.

People strategy

In order to meet the challenges of the next few years, our organisational change will look to maximise the quality and effectiveness of our policing output in order to protect people from harm. This will be delivered by ensuring the right people are in the right place at the right time, with the right skills and attitude to deliver.

The force's policing model and the shape and size of our organisation continues to change whilst demands continue to increase. It is therefore vital that we shape our workforce and environment to meet such challenges.

Recruiting and retaining the right people and maximising the contribution each and every person makes, is more critical than it has ever been to achieve the vision and support the delivery of our service.

West Mercia launched its new People Strategy in 2020 with the focus of enabling our people to be the best they can be. The strategy has six core objectives:

- Building strong, confident, and compassionate leadership.
- Ensuring personal resilience.
- Focused development.
- Attracting and managing talent.
- Effective workforce planning.
- Building a professional workforce.

West Mercia Police seeks to develop and enable our leaders to achieve the best for themselves and their people, by recognising and nurturing talent for the future.

The force is committed to creating an inclusive environment where our people feel empowered to exercise professional judgement, utilise their emotional intelligence and feel comfortable and confident to challenge. Ensuring our people have the confidence and capability to deliver our vision and values by developing effective leadership qualities is pivotal. We want our people to feel part of an organisational culture where they can be themselves, a culture that values diversity for the greater benefit of our communities.

We also support the National College of Policing leadership dimensions which we will endeavour to instil and develop at every level.

We invest in our people in a variety of ways which add value in order to develop a skilled, efficient, and effective workforce that reflects the changing needs and demands of the police service.

Our vision and values are underpinned by a learning culture which embeds personal responsibility and continuous improvement in our people and the service we deliver.

PAM Assist is the company that the force has engaged to provide its employee assistance programme. The service is available to all officers and staff and provides 24/7 confidential telephone support, assessment, advice and signposting on for both work and non-work related matters.

Peer Support

Peer Supporters are colleague volunteers who support colleagues with their mental wellbeing. They come from all areas of business and at all ranks.

Welfare

The Welfare Officer Team provides welfare support to individuals and managers across the force. They act as the first point of contact to provide confidential triaging and appropriate professional advice and recommendations in relation to any issues both personal and professional, affecting the psychological wellbeing of both officers and staff.

Health and wellbeing

In order to make West Mercia a great place to work, we ensure there are in-house offerings to aid the physical and mental health and wellbeing of our incredible staff and officers.

There are, of course, times when our staff need some support with their mental and physical health: be it linked to their personal or professional life. We have a dedicated team of occupational health professionals, as well as a wellbeing co-ordinator committed to your welfare, a buddy scheme, peer support, a force chaplain and a 24/7 employee assistance programme.

West Mercia Police is part of the OK9 Wellbeing and Trauma Dog Support Network which is an incredible addition to our commitment to wellbeing. The scheme allows us to have a number of dogs across the force area whose handlers are all trained as mental health first aiders. Dogs are known to have stress reducing benefits and a visit from one can offer temporary relief from day-to-day stresses, even for a short time.

The West Mercia Force Sports Club is open to all officers and staff for less than £5 a month. It is affiliated to Police Sport UK (PSUK) and membership benefits include fully equipped gyms on some of our sites, weekly classes including yoga and boxercise and the opportunity to represent West Mercia Police in a number of inter-force competitions.

Officers and staff can be eligible to apply for a blue light card providing members with thousands of amazing discounts online and on the high street.

Diversity and inclusion

West Mercia Police serves approximately 1.3 million people. Promoting equality of opportunity and celebrating diversity is a fundamental enabler of our overarching vision 'deliver a quality policing service and to protect people from harm'. It is intrinsic to our organisational culture, underpins our objectives and helps shape the way in which our services are designed and delivered.

The force is committed to serving our communities and our people, taking into consideration, and listening carefully to our many stakeholders.

We have also added Inclusion as our fifth value.

Our statutory duty

We are ever mindful of our duties under the Equality Act 2010 which is the UK's discrimination law that protects individuals from unfair treatment and promotes a fairer and more equal society. The Act protects people from discrimination, harassment and victimisation in work, education and when accessing services.

In addition, the Public Sector Equality Duty (PSED) came into force across Great Britain on 5 April 2011. It means that public bodies must consider all individuals when carrying out their day-to-day work - in shaping policy, in delivering services and in relation to their own employees.

Our aim is to increase trust and confidence and our approach is to empower communities to actively participate in delivering a fair and accessible police service for all.

Our equality objectives 2021 - 2025

Our communities:

Understanding our communities: We will continue to enhance this through engagement and equality data analysis. This helps us to better understand the composition of our communities and helps us to see any patterns of inequality or disparity.

Engagement and good relations: We develop our engagement work with diverse communities and continue to work with our Independent Advisory Groups.

Increasing confidence: We will be open and transparent as we build relationships with diverse groups, inviting scrutiny of information about important issues such as the use of force; stop and search; custody; hate crime and victim satisfaction.

Our partners:

Understanding the Partnership Landscape: Through partnership working, e.g. other Criminal Justice System agencies, local authorities, NHS, or voluntary sector partners, where relevant, we will analyse information that highlights disparity in the services we offer and work collectively to place the needs of victims and service users at the heart of our work.

Tackling Disparity: With our partners we will explain, where necessary reduce or eliminate disparity and improve services.

Joint Services Delivery: We will work with partners to develop strategies that provide effective public services in our communities, particularly for those who are vulnerable to crime and to involvement with the criminal justice system.

People and culture:

Transparency & Scrutiny: We will make our organisation as transparent as possible and encourage scrutiny of our activities by Staff Networks, Independent Advisory Groups, and other stakeholders. We will ensure that through this greater involvement we respond to feedback to improve our service. We will publish required equality data.

Developing our workforce: We will develop all our officers and staff so that they have a strong awareness of how equality, diversity and inclusion supports us to achieve a positive, dynamic working culture and a truly effective police service.

Understanding our workforce:

We will improve our understanding of the makeup of our workforce by putting systems in place to better analyse equality addressing any under-representation or disproportionality through innovative recruitment, retention, and progression strategies. We will engage and involve the workforce in embedding inclusive practices.

What our people say about working here

Laura, Operations and Communications Centre Supervisor

“I have been a supervisor for over three years, and I can honestly say I love my job. I have a really good team; no day is ever the same and I feel satisfied that we are protecting members of the public every day.”

Rebecca, Police Constable

“The people are the best thing about my job. It’s a cliché, but they really are like a second family. I didn’t appreciate that aspect until I became an officer. It’s amazing, you get to work together but we also do so much outside work - some people in the team are my best friends, and they really are friends for life.”

Gabrielle, Motor Vehicle Technician Apprentice

“My work colleagues are very encouraging and supportive with my aspirations and progress. I am happy with my job and enjoy coming to work, to improve my knowledge.”

What the public thinks of us

In a recent survey we found that:

94%

of people surveyed stated that West Mercia Police has their support of people are confident that they would receive a good service from us

85%

We can, of course, improve on this and maybe you can help us do that!

Feedback – why we do what we do

Working for West Mercia Police means the work you do often directly helps members of our local communities.

Whether you work in our operations and communications centre and answer lifesaving calls, work in one of our local safer neighbourhood teams and return someone's cherished possessions, or work in our communications team and share a story that helps locate a missing person.

People appreciate the help they are given, and often want to make their appreciation known. Here are some of those comments we have received since the beginning of 2023.

Feedback given to police officers after attending the scene of a crime:

“The statement was taken in great detail with a very high degree of both professionalism and sensitivity. What could have been a harrowing experience was made as positive and easy as possible. I really do think they deserve a wholehearted thank you.”

Feedback given to police officers after a successful case:

“During this awful experience every member of the police have been so kind to us, and so communicative, letting us know what they were able to tell us, my wife and I are just so impressed with this police force it makes us feel safe. All involved in this incident need to be thanked for all their hard work. I cannot praise the officers involved enough and I thank them very much indeed for all they have done for us.”

Feedback given to an OCC contact handler:

“The police operator dealing with a very difficult abusive lady, demonstrated outstanding skills, patience and professionalism. Both my wife and I would like it noted that she played an exceptional role in dealing with the situation and we would like to thank her accordingly.”

Feedback given to police officers and support staff following a theft:

“Thank you, and your colleague, for visiting last week. I have made use of the support pack you gave me. I have signed up to Neighbourhood Matters, logged my computer equipment on the immobilise website and registered the SmartWater. I will begin applying it later.”

Feedback given to support staff:

“For excellent service in renewing my shotgun certificate.”

Feedback given to officers who attended a burglary:

“Amazing rapid response and resolution to a burglary. At all times courteous, efficient, and supportive. Could not fault the response. Exemplary.”

Feedback given to officers who successfully dealt with a dog straying onto train tracks:

“There were initially four officers dealing with my sister's dog straying onto the railway line. They were professional, courteous non-judgmental. My sister and I cannot thank them enough.”

Feedback given to police officers who attended and settled a disruption before it could develop:

“Well done to the officers who responded so quickly in the wee small hours of this morning, to an incident in Redditch. Four young men were engaged in a very heated argument in the middle of the road, and it had the potential to get out of hand. Your officers immediately calmed the situation down and dealt quietly with the young man who had been seriously provoking the other three. Good job!”
